Submission:

This proposed electoral map will directly reduce the quality of government by giving state representatives less incentives and less time to focus on their own communities. It is a map constructed for politicians, not the people they are meant to serve. We need more electorates representing less people each to ensure each local community receives the care and attention it deserves. I would note it was the lack of care that Peter Dutton gave to his own federal electorate following a severe natural disaster that led to his historic removal from office. Beenleigh specifically is its own community and should not be lumped into otherwise separate ones.

We additionally need to be including our Aboriginal Australian citizens in the naming conventions. Aboriginal Australians built this country and in our multicultural nation it is our duty to ensure that every community is honoured properly. Oodgeroo should retain its current name.

Creating this partisan map should not be the state governments responsibility or aim. Providing more amenities and ensuring our state remains/becomes safe, prosperous and developed should be.

These partisan spat are yet another example of the degradation of the LNP into a party of men and women who happily stab each other in the back rather than attempting to create real change for the better.

I oppose this map and implore for improved measures against partisan gerrymandering and corruption on every government level in the future.

The Earl Grey would be ashamed.
