Hello,

In reference to your suggestion of abolishing the seat of Hill in Far North Qld (FNQ), this would be disrespectful & disregarding of the needs of the people in this electorate. The hardworking farmers, graziers & primary production sector who make up the majority of the voters in this region deserve to have a member in state parliament who lives & walks amongst them regularly and understands their needs. If you piggy-back our electorate onto another, already large, adjoining electorate it would be physically & geographically impossible for one person to cover effectively. Thus the needs of the people of either region would not be heard or dealt with in a timely manner.

Do you people of the over populated S.E corner even have any idea of the vastness (& diversity) of FNQ and the central & western sectors of this incredible state that we live in? If you do, then stop putting the needs of the city-slickers first and start treating the country people equally.

If you don't, then it's time you got your fancily-dressed backsides out of your air-conditioned offices & went for a good long drive. And don't stop until you're nicely polished 4wd's are covered in red dust (or mud) and you've had a good hard look at the real Queensland & chatted with the real people over a cuppa or a beer.

Kind Regards,

Sue Taig
