Hi
currently not only is there not enough reasonable and affordable housing, I have my child attending Bray Park State High School while trying to find accomodation for my children and I (which have medical conditions). I am currently still living with family until we get a rental. There's the back history so here's why the borders shouldn't change - I have my daughter settled in a high school she likes and if the borders change then we would no longer be allowed to stay at Bray Park State High School. Changing borders creates limited placements in school as it is. When I had no choice to move to Petrie many years ago - the Primary School informed me that because my address changed to Petrie - I should no longer send my children there. As a parent you are responsible for keeping your family and their education stable which is what I am trying to do with my children every single day. So changing borders will just create more pressure all around and as much as change can be a good thing, changing borders is not a good thing when it has a big impact on a lot of other things like education.
