I live on Wardell St in Enoggera. Our area is in a tough position at the moment - split between two electorates. I would like to see boundaries changed to combine Enoggera and Alderley into a single electorate. I think this would help our local area's interests to be more fairly reflected in the electorates, not shared and diluted across two.

Furthermore, I think it would make more sense to have Stafford's southern boundary follow the northern bank of Kedron Brook, and the northern half of Ferny Grove and southern half of Everton combined into a single electorate. These areas also share strong communities, interests and historic connections. Finally, I think preserving Indigenous electorate names is a way of recognising and preserving our Australian culture and history. These have always been places of community.
